

As an employee at a district library, I am extremely aware of the need for information to come from a variety of sources. It is vital that the local news sources, upon which so many people are exclusively dependant on for their news, come from multiple news sources and not a single corporation.

Because it is your job make sure the American people have only the best options and that Democracy is the base of our information system, I'm sure you'll behave responsibly in protecting us from the corporate equivalent of communist propoganda. Please, enforce the FCC regulations on cross-ownership, don't abolish them.
